

Dr. Khalid Ali Al-Quradaghi

Advisor of Developmental Information Systems, President's Office - Planning & Statistics Authority

Dr. Khalid have been involved in leading research initiatives and development from more than 10 years:

In 2017, he led the advancement of knowledge systems as a Director of Knowledge and Innovation Systems at Qatar Foundation QF Research & Development.

In 2016, he earned from MIT the highest Executive Education Certificate named "The Advanced Certificate for Executives in Management, Innovation, & Technology".

In 2013, he led a unique project at Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) as a Visiting Scholar and Director of the Science, Technology and Innovation (STI) project.

As from 2008 to 2013, he managed a national strategic initiative to advance human capacity by being a Director of funding programs at Qatar National Research Fund (QNRF) - member of QF.

He earned his PhD degree in 2008 from the University of Manchester, United Kingdom. His interested work topics related to informatics, evaluation, knowledge management, E-Government and leadership.