

Dr. Khaled Al-Naama

Khaled Al-Naama is the Director of the Family Policy Department at the Doha International Family Institute (DIFI). He has worked with the CDC at the Ministry of Public Health with a focus on policies related to family care and sexual health. Furthermore, during his tenure at Qatargas, he participated in developing crisis communication policies and procedures and assisted in developing a strategic plan for the employee's technical competencies. Academically, Mr. Al-Naama has a postgraduate qualification in applied psychology, as his master's thesis was published in the International Journal of Technology Management (IJTM). Currently, he is pursuing a Ph.D. degree in the field of psychology, and a scientific poster for his doctoral thesis was published at King Naif Arab University for Security Sciences during the Fifth International Conference for the Arab Society for Forensic Science and Forensic Medicine (ASFSFM). This is along with some other professional training focused on family well-being and mental health.